Harvesters Needed

Do you still need a few hours to complete the work part of your CSA membership? If so, the Harvest Team needs you. There is a lot to be harvested this time of year, and some of it can be done after work, especially if you can get off work just a little early on Fridays. Think of it as CSA Happy Hour--from about 3 pm until dark on Friday, you could get in a couple of hours helping with the harvest. If you have the time and inclination to pick beans, tomatoes, squash, peppers, and more, more, more, please contact

Chris Boatwright, or

Harvest Team Coordinator.

If you suddenly find yourself available on a Friday afternoon (or even a Wednesday or Thursday), you can check the whiteboard in the greenhouse to see what needs to be harvested and where. Or, contact Dave, Hayley, or Charles di-

Salt of the earth
Not Worth its Salt
Take it With a Grain of Salt

Salted Away
Salty Language

Salt frequently appears in figures of speech.

This gives you a hint at the importance of salt.

Salt, also known as table salt, or rock salt, is a mineral that is composed primarily of sodium chloride.

Salt once traded ounce for ounce for gold.

Humans need salt .

Salt has built and destroyed empires.

Determined trade routes and the location of cities.

It has inspired revolutions and occasioned wars.

Salt has been best-known as a food preservative for many thousands of years.

Salt was included among funeral offerings found in ancient Egyptian tombs.

As a farmer, George Washington grew marijuana on his farm and promoted it's growth. In the 1790s, the crop was grown mainly for its industrial value as hemp and for soil stabilization. It was many years later that the recreational and illegal use of marijuana became popular

.A Newsletter should be full of news about the organization which it represents. The only way the editor of a newsletter can get information about the organization is if the members of the organization send in articles and information

I sit here week after week finding drivell to fill these pages and that's okay, my middle name is drivell. But it seems to me that some of you might have something to say.

Sometimes on a Saturday morning I stop at the greenhouse. I hear things. Somebody wondered if any of the members would like to go in on a cow with him. I think he meant a butchered cow, but I am not sure. I told him to write something up and I would put it in the newsletter. Either he found someone to split a cow with him or he changed his mind. He never sent me anything.

“Oh gee, I have a wonderful recipe for Swiss Chard jelly.” Somebody down there told me. “I will send it to you...”

I never got it. . .The Swiss weep.

And, what's up Doc! After your insightful ruminations on the splinter and the blister the world eagerly awaits your thoughts on Salmonella.
